

WorkSafeBC's online services

Transmitting the Employer's Report of Injury (Form 7) to WorkSafeBC

To help employers do business online with WorkSafeBC more quickly and easily, WorkSafeBC offers a business-to-business service (B2B) tailored to their needs. A B2B service for the Employer's Report of Injury or Occupational Disease (Form 7) is designed for employers who have their own Claims Management or Health and Safety software and wish to electronically transmit incident and injury data directly to WorkSafeBC, eliminating the need to complete and submit paper Form 7s. This service uses XML for the data format and web services for transmitting information, both of which are recognized as an industry standard in electronic communication between organizations.

Want to join our growing community of B2B service users?

Speak with your firm's software provider about how you can transmit Form 7 electronically to WorkSafeBC using B2B services. Alternatively, you can contact any of the following firms to inquire about health and safety software:

Occupational Health and Safety Agency for Health Care in BC (OHSAH)

Workplace Health Indicator Tracking and Evaluation (WHITE) Database

The WHITE database is focused on incident tracking and case management (WorkSafeBC, short-term disability, and long-term disability), worker health, and health and safety. In addition, the database centralizes information that can be used to reduce and/or eliminate workplace injuries, provide prompt clinical and workplace interventions to reduce disability and time loss, and evaluate the effectiveness of health and safety programs.
